

HYDE PARK

Benj. Atwell of Burlington spent a few days in town recently.

Supt. Crosby spending a few days at his home in Amherst, Mass.

The Ladies' Aid will serve a supper next Thursday evening, followed by a Valentine social.

Miss Sara Chapin is enjoying a month's mid-winter vacation, spending the time in Cambridge and Essex.

Andrew Cowan receives by subscription a purse of about eighty dollars, together with numerous gifts of clothing and household effects. He has moved into apartments in the Scribner tenement. John Wild has moved into a cottage on Mill street. He had about $380 insurance in the recent fire.

Rev. Chas. Hamlin of Amherst gave two excellent sermons at the Congregational church last Sunday. In the morning he spoke upon being "A Good Loser", and in the evening he spoke upon church bells. The reverend gentleman is a scholarly and interesting preacher and always receives a welcome here.

The monthly bank meeting last Thursday drew the usual attendance of outside directors. Abe Laraway was up from Waterville the same day, but we are not certain as to what business drew him here. However, he was here—"as true as you live and breathe"; possibly as a "mere matter of form."

The L. C. A. students have decided to cancel their play, "A Scrap of Paper," and substitute therefor "The College Ball." They are to be drilled by Miss Margaret Grace Robinson of Newport, who has successfully staged several plays in this vicinity and we are assured that "The College Ball" will be among the best ever given hereabouts. It is planned to give the play the early part of April.

Pertaining to Town Affairs

The Hyde Park town reports are in the hands of the printers and will be out in a few days. It may be interesting to know that the liabilities of the town are $14,836.93 and the assets $2,903.13. This latter amount is divided as follows:—Cash on hand, $1,849.88; due from Campbell's tax bills, $159.28; from Lanpher's tax bill, $31.85; from Miner's tax bill, $744.29; from N. G. Wood for dog licenses, $117.05. This leaves the net indebtedness of the town $11,933.74 as against $14,516.11 last year.

Our expenses have been:—Schools, $8,745.25; Highways, $4,927.89; Poor, $1,054.29; Bridges, $696.03; Miscellaneous, $850.36; County and State Tax, $2,236.77; Interest, $549.23; Salaries, $540.40, making a total expense of $19,500.24, as against $21,831.26 last year. The Selectmen estimate that a tax of $1.79 will do the business next year.

Forty Years Ago

From an old hand-bill we take the following announcement:—"The ladies of the Spiritualist Society of Morrisville and Hyde Park will hold their annual levee and oyster supper at Hyde Park on Friday evening, Jan. 22, 1875. The literary exercises will be at town hall, supper and dance at the American House." The program was made up of a "recitation by Miss Rossie Bennett", then followed tableaux, "The Dying Soldier", "The Awakening in the Inner Land" and "Profession vs. Practice." "Widow Beckett's Unexpected Meeting With Parson Sniffles" was given by Miss S. A. Burke and Charles L. Shaw. There was a "Bone Solo" by Bertie Crane, and the exercises were interspersed with music.

A note at the bottom of the bill states that "The P. & O. Railroad will carry ten or more persons from any station on the line for fare one way."

The bill is surely a souvenir, as there are not many left who were participants in that event. The bill was recently given to Bert Crane and he prizes the same very highly.

Belvidere Center

Mrs. Doral Marcette is ill.

The revival meetings that have been conducted here by the Rev. A. Youngren closed Sunday evening, Jan. 31st.

Mrs. Emily Shattuck, who labored so faithfully here in the revival meetings, was called to her home by the illness of Miss Boyd.

Mrs. Frank Fletcher has been in Bakersfield for a few days.

Little Brandon Potter, who has been ill, is now gaining.

The schoolhouse at Belvidere Center was burned to the ground Saturday evening about 6:30. The origin of the fire is a mystery as there had been no fire in the building since Friday. The building was partly covered by insurance.

VERMONT FARMER'S VIEW

Stowe Farmer Says Vermont Should Raise More Wheat

Editor News and Citizen:—

For what I believe to be the welfare of the public at large, but more especially the people of Lamoille County, I make this appeal for space in your most excellent paper for the purpose of setting forth a few things that we should consider for our industrial success under the peculiar conditions that are thrust upon us by the great war in Europe.

On December 1, 2, 3 and 4, 1914, the Massachusetts Dairymen's Association and State Board of Agriculture held a joint meeting under the name of the Massachusetts Milk, Cream and Butter Show and, according to Prof. Cook, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was the best ever held in this country of known record. Prof. Eckles, of the Missouri Agricultural College, in his speech at this meeting, said: "The day of cheap feed for cattle as well as food for man is past in this country, and our dairymen cannot reasonably expect to continue in the business, if they do not adopt practices to keep down cost of production and distribution that would not have been considered worth while a few years ago."

We have come to the place where we no longer think of raising grains for home consumption, but are depending on the West and South for nearly everything that we have in this line, until we now face a price on flour that bids fair to be almost prohibitive. Now, with your permission, I would like to ask, why do we depend on the West for our flour? Is it because their land will produce more wheat than ours? No. In the seven years that I was in the far West, I visited the cream of the wheat producing land of the United States and their yield is only 30 to 35 bushels per acre. Our Vermont land will very easily produce as much or more. Is it because their land is cheaper? No. In traveling through one of the greatest wheat producing centers I found the ruling price of land was $150 per acre, which is much higher than the price of cultivated land in our section of the country. The average wheat crop of North and South Dakota, which are considered great producers of wheat, is far below the productivity of Vermont soil. We can and do raise one-third more wheat to the acre than the Dakotas. Then, why, Mr. Farmer, do you pay $6.00 or more per barrel for your flour when you can produce it yourself for $4.00 per barrel? In discussing this subject with several of our farmers, I have found many that would grow a small acreage to wheat this year, but they say, "there is not a mill in the country that we know of where we can get our wheat put into flour." We used to raise the wheat and had the mills. We stopped raising wheat and the mills went out for lack of customers. If we, the farmers of Lamoille County will raise the wheat, would not H. A. Slayton & Co. of Morrisville furnish the mill? I would like to hear from others that are interested in this matter, something that would help lift many a mortgage, keeping a large sum of money at home, and thereby build up our own industries. Very truly yours,

W. R. COLLINS.

Page's Educational Bill

However divergent the views of the real merit of vocational education, all must give Senator Carroll S. Page of Vermont credit for splendid work for the cause, both in and out of Congress. The Advance pays tribute to the Senator's services in the following:

It is beyond all question that these United States in general and Vermont in particular owe a tremendous debt of gratitude to Carroll S. Page of Hyde Park, Senator in Congress for the great fight he has made in Congress and out of it for vocational education. In the national arena he was and is admittedly the father of the idea, and if there had been no change of administration he would have undoubtedly carried it triumphantly through Congress and placed his bill on the statute books. As it was—seeing the great credit which would later attach to whoever had the name of leading the movement—his bill in its essential features was picked up and stolen bodily by Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia and carried to a successful conclusion. This final result, however, is very largely attributable to Senator Page's continuous and earnest work in its behalf, and to him, as the national pioneer in the movement, should be given the credit by his contemporaries and later by the millions of youth who will rise up and call him blessed.

The bill now before Congress is probably the greatest educational measure ever seriously considered by that body and that Senator Page is so prominently identified with it is contemplated with pride and satisfaction on the part of his fellow Vermonters.—Bellows Falls Times.

The Vermont Association of Boston, which maintains an attractive home at the Hotel Westminster, wishes to get in touch with young men from Vermont who are located in the city or its vicinity. The regular dues of the association are $5.00 a year, but up to the age of 25 they are only $2.00 a year. Vermont people visiting in Boston are welcome to the rooms, to make appointments to meet people there, or to use them in any other way at their convenience.

THE BLUE DEVILS OF INDIGESTION

Are put to rout by Dys-pep-lets, the simple effective digestive tablets, oval, sugar-coated, prepared by C. L. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

They give the most gratifying relief in sour stomach, distress after eating, belching, nausea, heartburn, etc. Perfectly safe, perfectly reliable, perfectly free from narcotics.

One or two crushed in the mouth and swallowed slowly—that's all. You'll not think of your stomach again. Try them. Ten or twenty-five cents or a dollar.

Millions Lost

There is a leak in the newspapers of the country through which $5,000,000 in publicity trickled within the last year.

Discussing the free advertising which newspapers permit each year, a prominent publisher recently said:—"By press agent we mean the representative of a large corporation who is paid to keep that corporation or its product before the public through the newspapers without paying for the space."

"It is a conservative estimate that at least $5,000,000 worth of valuable space has been given away unwittingly by the newspapers of the country in the last year through the machinations of these men."

"Now, a newspaper has just two commodities for sale; one is its circulation and the other its advertising space. If a man has anything to offer to the public he should be compelled to buy advertising space in which to tell about it, yet dozens of corporations and merchants—I have in mind half a dozen of the wealthiest concerns in the United States—buy no advertising, but employ men who are continually 'putting things over' on the newspapers and keeping their goods before the public constantly."

"If advertising space is worth anything, it is worth all that is asked for it, and everything that is advertised for sale should pay for the advertisement."—Newspaper Publishers' Auxiliary.

Cheer for the "Drys"

"No difficulty is expected by the Russian government in raising indirect revenue to cover the deficiency due to the discontinuation of the sale of vodka and other liquors. Although vast numbers of laborers are in the army, it is pointed out that the loss to industry will be scarcely felt, because of the increased efficiency of fifty per cent of those available, due to their inability to get liquor."

Deprivation of vodka, then, has transformed a half-Russian into a whole Russian. Here is an argument for prohibition that the "drys" will not be likely to miss.

There is such a thing as being entirely and altogether too utterly egotistical. How in the deuce could we ever match it we really looked for perfect human beings to mate with? How many men and women out of every hundred are physically attractive or pathologically free from constitutional maladies? We are bound to marry whatever we can get, and make the best of it. If the imperfect people were prevented from joining, marriage under present conditions would be almost impossible. And who in the deuce would care to live with one of these professors of eugenics? No, there is much in physical care, moral training and selection of associates, but when Cupid gets busy, Love laughs at law and all the world elopes with its lover.

Father's Good Point.

Little Elizabeth had been offended in some way. She went off into a corner and turned her back on the family.

"I'm mad," she exclaimed suddenly. "I wish I didn't have any father or mother."

"That's wrong, dear," said her mother. "We are the best friends you have."

"Well," said Elizabeth, doubtfully, "I don't mind having father; but he doesn't hang around here much, but I'm getting awfully tired of the rest of you."

WHEN THE TIRED MOTHER GIVES OUT

What Then?—The Family Suffer, the Poor Mothers Suffer—Mrs. Becker Meets This Distressing Situation.

Collinsville, Ill.—"I suffered from a nervous break-down and terrible headaches, and was tired all over, totally worn out and too discouraged to enjoy life, but as I had four in family and sometimes eight or nine boarders, I kept on working despite my suffering."

"I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it, and within two weeks I noticed a decided improvement in my condition and now I am a well woman."—Mrs. ANA BECKER, Collinsville, Ill.

There are hundreds of nervous, run-down, overworked women in this vicinity who are hardly able to drag around and who we are sure would be wonderfully benefited by Vinol as Mrs. Becker was.

The reason Vinol is so successful in building up health and strength in such cases is because it combines the medicinal tissue building and curative elements of cod's livers together with the blood making, strengthening properties of tonic iron. We ask every weak, nervous, run-down man or woman in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if it fails to benefit.

HAS TIME OF WORLD

Single Dial of Chronometer Records It All.

Invention Both Mechanically Clever and Artistic Has Been Awarded a Patent by the Authorities at Washington.

A chronometer, indicating on a single dial the time at any city in the world, was recently awarded a patent, according to Popular Mechanics.

Odd Clock Which Shows the Time of Every Place in the World.

The instrument consists of a globe of the earth enclosed in a glass dome, around the circumference of which is an hour and minute scale. Half of the characters are in white and the other half black, indicating day and night. The dome is so mounted that it revolves once every 24 hours, so that if it is desired to know the time at Paris, it is only necessary to follow a longitudinal line leading from the position occupied by that city on the globe to the dial. If the figure appears in white, the hour which it represents is that of day. A second dial at the base of the sphere shows the local time, although this could be read on the universal dial.

Russia's Monster Aeroplanes.

A good deal has been heard concerning the British and German aeroplanes, but the great Sikorsky biplanes used by the troops of the czar have been rather overlooked. These machines, invented by a famous Russian named Sikorsky, are by far the biggest aeroplanes being flown in the war—in fact, they are the largest in the world. They stand 16 feet high, and are about 100 feet wide. The Sikorsky can carry almost as many passengers as an airship. Twenty men can be accommodated in the large passenger cabin, which is constructed of metal and contains numerous windows. In this machine three engines are fitted, which give a total of nearly 1,000 horsepower, for, owing to the Sikorsky biplane weighing in itself one and a half tons, and having so large a crew to carry, it demands high power to pull it off the ground and keep it in the air.

The weight of the machine has necessitated an elaborate landing chassis, composed of numerous springs and pneumatic tubes, so that the huge biplane can alight safely on rough ground at a speed of 60 miles an hour.

Poor Chinese Business Rule.

It is an established custom in China that a new company must pay dividends to its shareholders from the first year of its existence, and this forms invariably a clause of the articles of association. Some concerns which fail to realize a profit have to contract a high interest loan in order to pay dividends in full. It is this practice that compels companies to contract loan after loan until they are plunged into a hopeless state. Furthermore, when a new company is established, it is from the start tied down to a system of commission paying. In every purchase as well as in every sale of the company a commission goes with it, which is therefore counted into every payment and receipt, thus occasioning the need of an unnecessarily large amount of capital.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

COOKING CRABS.

A N easy way of serving crab meat in the shells is to shred it and mix it with a dressing made of four tablespoonfuls of oil, two teaspoonfuls of vinegar, salt and white pepper and cayenne. Return the dressed crab meat to the cleaned shells and garnish each with a thin slice of lemon cut in two pieces and two or three green sprigs of parsley.

Crab meat may be prepared in the same way heated, then returned to the shells and eaten hot.

Garnished With Parsley.

Broiled Crabs.—Boil the crabs and pick out the meat. Dice or shred and mix it with nutmeg, salt and pepper. Cut three ounces of butter in small pieces and add it to the crab meat. Then add three tablespoonfuls of vinegar and a quarter of a pound of fine breadcrumbs. Mix all these ingredients, fill the shells with the combination and put them on a hot broiler. Brown them quickly and serve immediately. Parsley and lemon may be used for garnish.

Tempting Luncheon Dish.

Crabs With Pimientos.—Boil hard four eggs, chop the whites, mash the yolks and mix them with two tablespoonfuls of fine white breadcrumbs and one and one-half tablespoonfuls of canned pimientos chopped fine. Melt, but do not brown, four tablespoonfuls of butter in the dish. Work in the egg mixture and add slowly a cupful of cream and, lastly, a cupful of crab meat. Season with salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of lemon juice and a dash of nutmeg. Let grow smooth and serve at once in little individual dishes or on toast.

Served in the Shells.

Scalloped Crabs.—Boil and pick out the meat from the crabs. Beat an egg light and mix the meat of a dozen crabs. Season to taste with salt and cayenne and a little powdered mace or clove of garlic chopped very fine. Mix thoroughly into the crab meat some fine bread or cracker crumbs—enough to enable you to form the mixture into balls about the size of English walnuts. Dip these in beaten egg and roll in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. Have the crab shells cleaned and heated, put about four of the small balls in each shell with a sprig of parsley stuck in the topmost ball, pour a little cream sauce in the shell and serve very hot.
